

Chehalem Valley Vaudeville

Guest Speakers: Scott Parker and Kat Richer, Co-founders, directors and performers, Chehalem Valley Vaudeville

“...Chehalem Valley Vaudeville has delighted audiences with its diverse range of community acts, including juggling, improv, skits, music, magic and more,” according to the Newberg Graphic.

Chehalem Valley Vaudeville brings quirky, rollicking performances on different themes throughout the year. Performances take place in the Black Box Theater inside Chehalem Cultural Center.

This entertaining, family-friendly variety show has something for all ages. It features local performers in a purposeful community theater project. The mission of the Vaudeville series is to bring the community together in a relaxed, friendly, nonpolitical environment with lighthearted entertainment, in order to foster a spirit of fellowship and strengthen our community.

Chehalem Cultural Center presents this series, with support from Ford Family Foundation and local sponsors First Federal, Hagan Hamilton Insurance Solutions, and partners of origin, Chehalem Valley Chamber of Commerce and Chehalem Park and Recreation District.

Scott Parker and Kat Ricker are co-creators and co-directors, and they perform as well.
